Dear [Redacted]

This is in reply to your letter of March 19, 1973, concerning the papers relating to the service of the Honorable Allen W. Dulles as a member of the President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy.

As you requested, we have reviewed these papers. We have retained 13 documents and two pages from another document that are copies of records of the Commission that are currently withheld from research. Enclosed are copies of the guidelines prepared by the Department of Justice which are used in periodical reviews of the Commission's records and two copies of a deed of gift for the papers we are retaining. Please ask Mrs. Dulles to sign both copies and return the carbon copy of the deed of gift to us. She should retain the ribbon copy for her records. We shall be pleased to furnish copies of the papers we are retaining to the Princeton University Library when they are made available for research in order that they can be included in the Dulles papers.

All classified documents in the material we have returned to you separately have been declassified. The material can be made available for research as far as any content concerning the Commission's investigation is concerned. Some of the letters in the two folders of private papers labeled "Miscellaneous Correspondence" and "Crackpot Letters" should be considered for withholding from research on the basis of possible invasions of personal privacy.

Sincerely,

James B. Rhoads
